HISTORY

The hills of the Morvan cultivate the art of welcome

A beautiful hilly bocage (semi-open landscape by means of hedges, hedgerows and walls or bocage) : developed in a soft granite, the hills of the Luzycois bear one of the best preserved bocages of Burgundy-Franche-Comté. Walking along the secret paths, hikers can enjoy panoramas of the high forested massif of Mont Beuvray. An ancient country focused on others and on the future: the barony of Luzy was only annexed to the Nivernais in 1418 and was equipped with ramparts (tower of the barons). In the town hall, go and see "The Life of Esther", a beautiful Aubusson tapestry. Luzy now plays the attractiveness card. Its cultural dynamism has spread across the borders of the Bazois-Loire-Morvan. A gentle transition between small town and nature: the Alène trail and the garden of the future. From the church, the Alène educational trail passes by, which has been restored to its natural bed, thanks to the Fishermen's Association. The garden is an atypical family space, on the banks of the Alène, a cosy and shared place in the middle of nature, a stone's throw from the city centre.
